Chapter 309: The Divine Floras and Faunas

As The Absolute One, Sung Jin-Woo's power continued to grow, and with it, his desire to create life in all its forms. Beyond the realms, tools, and armies, he sought to enrich the universes with divine flora and fauna, living beings that would embody the beauty, strength, and essence of creation itself. These divine beings were not mere plants and animals; they were living embodiments of the multiverse’s power, meant to enhance balance, sustain life, and inspire awe.

Divine Floras

1. Eternal Bloom

A radiant flower that blossoms only once every millennium.

Features:

Its petals shine with the light of a thousand stars.

The flower’s scent is said to heal and rejuvenate those who breathe it in.

Can purify the land and bring fertility to barren worlds.

2. Bloodvine

A crimson-colored vine with leaves that resemble scales of dragons.

Features:

The vine has the power to bind and heal, capable of growing instantly to wrap around the wounded.

Can also feed on the negative energies, absorbing and neutralizing curses and dark magic.

Found only in sacred forests or battlefields where great wars have occurred.

3. Celestial Lotus

A flower that floats above the surface of water, glowing with celestial light.

Features:

Its petals contain the essence of the cosmos, capable of manifesting divine powers.

When harvested, it can grant immortality for those worthy.

Acts as a focal point for Sung Jin-Woo’s divine energy, amplifying his creations and magic.

4. Worldroot Tree

A massive, ancient tree that is deeply connected to the fabric of the multiverse.

Features:

Its roots span across realms, connecting them and maintaining balance.

The tree produces fruit that can transcend time, offering wisdom from past, present, and future.

When planted in a new realm, it can stabilize and nurture that world.

5. Frostflower

A rare flower that grows only in regions where time flows erratically, such as near paradoxical anomalies.

Features:

It can freeze time in its vicinity, stopping aging and decay.

The flower’s frost can preserve life, healing any wounds or ailments.

Known to appear only in moments of great peace or intense chaos.

6. Sunsong Ivy

A golden ivy that glows like the sun.

Features:

When wrapped around any structure, it grants that structure divine protection.

Its leaves provide warmth and nourishment, allowing them to thrive even in the harshest environments.

The ivy thrives in the presence of sunlight and can help regenerate lost lands and energies.

7. Whisperspire Orchid

A translucent orchid that produces a soft hum, heard only by the pure of heart.

Features:

The orchid’s song can heal mental wounds, calm troubled minds, and soothe spirits.

Its presence creates an aura of tranquility that balances emotions and brings clarity.

Used as a symbol of peace and diplomacy in various realms.

Divine Faunas

1. Aetheral Seraph

A majestic, winged lion with a mane of pure light.

Features:

The Aetheral Seraph can command the winds, flying at the speed of thought.

Its roar can summon storms or calm the most violent of tempests.

When it touches the ground, it can purify corrupted lands and creatures.

2. Phoenix of Eternity

A legendary bird with fiery wings that represents eternal life and rebirth.

Features:

When it dies, it is reborn from its ashes, each rebirth more powerful than the last.

Its feathers can heal and revive, restoring the dead to life.

A symbol of hope, its presence is said to bring light into the darkest of places.

3. Drake of Infinity

A massive, cosmic dragon whose scales shimmer with the colors of distant galaxies.

Features:

The Drake can create black holes and manipulate the laws of space, traveling across the multiverse in an instant.

Its breath can either create stars or collapse entire universes, depending on its will.

It is a guardian of the outer realms, protecting the balance between creation and destruction.

4. Gale Behemoth

A colossal creature resembling a fusion of lion, bear, and eagle, covered in cloud-like fur.

Features:

The Gale Behemoth controls the winds, allowing it to create tornadoes or serene breezes.

Its roar can shatter mountains and bring down the most formidable foes.

Its presence fosters life, and it is often seen in places where creation is flourishing.

5. Void Sphinx

A creature with the body of a lion and the wings of an eagle, its eyes glowing with void energy.

Features:

The Void Sphinx exists beyond time and space, able to see past, present, and future simultaneously.

It guards the pathways between realms, ensuring that none shall travel without permission.

Its riddles and tests are legendary, capable of revealing the deepest truths or ensnaring the unworthy.

6. Celestial Wolf

A wolf made of starlight, with eyes that shimmer like galaxies.

Features:

The Celestial Wolf can phase through space, moving between realms effortlessly.

Its howl summons the power of the stars, calling forth meteor showers or providing guidance.

Loyal and fierce, it protects the sacred realms and serves as a companion to the chosen ones.

7. Radiant Stag

A magnificent, glowing stag whose antlers reflect the light of the moon and stars.

Features:

The Radiant Stag can teleport between realms, carrying those worthy of its blessing.

It is a guide to the lost and a protector of sacred places.

Its hoofbeats bring harmony to chaotic worlds, restoring balance and peace.

Purpose and Impact

The divine floras and faunas Sung Jin-Woo created were not only symbols of his infinite power but also agents of balance and prosperity. They played a crucial role in maintaining harmony in the realms, each contributing to the ongoing creation of life, the protection of existence, and the nurturing of the multiverse's infinite diversity.

These divine creatures and plants became revered symbols across worlds, and many of them found their places in Sung Jin-Woo’s newly constructed realms. With each new creation, he reshaped the fabric of the multiverse itself, leaving behind an eternal legacy that would inspire awe for eons to come.